NSTL playing major role in space development

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

National Space Technology Laboratories in Hancock County is heavily involved with plans for history's first manned space station scheduled to be completed in 1992.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration scientists Patricia K. Connors and Sidney Whitley, the local NASA center will be the lead center for commercial earth and ocean observation missions and for commercialization of remote sensing technology.

NASA's Earth Resources Laboratories at NSTL will also be working with the Goddard Space Flight Center in Washington D.C. to develop a part of the data system for the space station, said Whitley, chief of the ERL's sensor and data group.

"The space station is NASA's latest initiative and one very important to the nation and to NASA," Whitley said.

"It is different from other space projects in that it is something we put up to leave for a long, long time," he said.

"All of the agency, all NASA centers, have been involved in the definition of the space station, and we here at NSTL have participated in all sorts of working groups that have defined the space station as it is conceived today," Whitley said.

At this point certain centers have been selected to perform certain functions to get it converted from the conceptual stage to the real flight item, he said.

A permanently manned U.S. space station should become operational in the early 1990's, said Connors, chief of ERL's applications group at NSTL.

The "power tower" concept of the station currently is being used for Phase B design and definition contracts.

Whitley said NASA is currently in Phase B and also Phase C, construction of test articles.

The tower is about 400 feet long with solar panels to gather sunlight to be converted into electrical power. The space shuttle will be able to dock to one of several modules which will provide living and laboratory space for six to eight people.

Connors, who has been named manager over the local commercial area, said at NSTL they will be attempting to identify and analyze potential commercial vendors; do a comprehensive analysis of the legal, fiscal and technical constraints; plan for a market analysis; and submit recommendation for stimulating commercial involvement on the space station.

"There is a whole menu of things that have to be identified to support commercial missions being proposed," she said.

At NSTL, earth and ocean observations for commercial interests will be the main area of study, she said.

Connors added they will be approaching industry and finding out who is interested in working as a commercial operator in the space station program and what their particular area of interest is.

She said other areas of commercial missions will also be examined. These include science and application (taking ground technology and putting it in space), technology and development (requiring space environment to develop new technology) and materials processing (taking advantage of the low gravity environment to develop the technology and actually manufacture pharmaceuticals and electronic components).

The Johnson Space Center has been given overall responsibility for the space station as well as for the data system, Whitley said.

He added the Goddard Space Flight Center has been given a sub-responsibility in the data system for developing ways to interface with users of the space system.

"We at NSTL are working with Goddard to develop a piece of that system to simulate sensor data and space craft data so the user will see in their system the kind of data they will ultimately see from the space station," Whitley added.

Whitley said they will be experimenting with the different types of data formats so the needs of potential users can be anticipated.

We are planning to show the user that he can get the kind of data he needs on the ground and can send commands back through the system up to his components that are on the space station, Whitley noted.

"We at NSTL will be building the system that will simulate problems with the data so Goddard can evaluate how well they have designed their user interface system," he said.

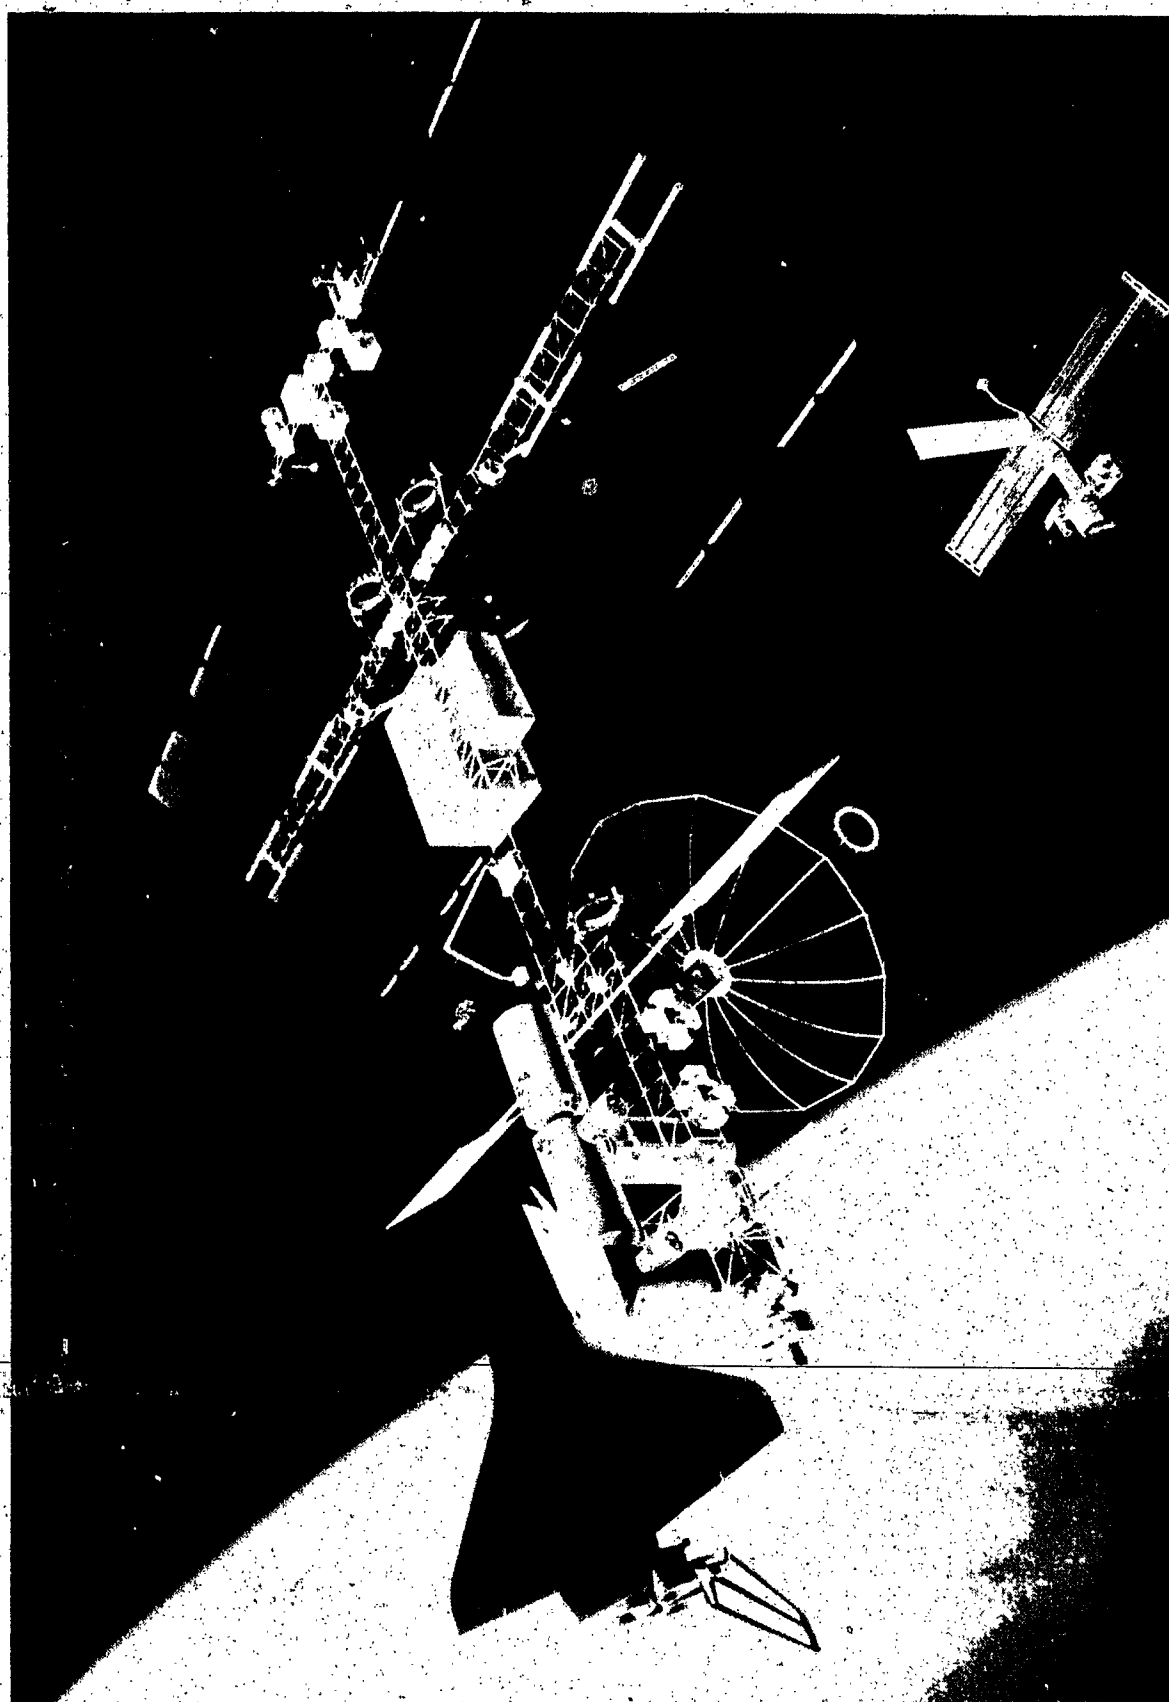

"When the system is built and tested, we will deliver a little special computer that we built to the Goddard center so they can literally test the system that they have and let users experiment with it to see how effective it is," Whitley said.

"It is because of our expertise in computerized data systems that we have an opportunity to help in defining certain things in the space station," he said.

"It is highly likely that some of the applications that will be done on the space station will be some of the same kinds of applications that we have been working with in the area of remote sensings... so the experience that we have gained here at ERL over the last 14 years will be directly applicable to the needs of the space station," Whitley said.

"I think one of the reasons we are in the area of user interface is that we have interfaced with users at state and local levels, federal government agencies and industry," he said. "We have worked

Kellar orders bridge closed

By DENA BISNETTE

A wooden bridge on Old Dossett Road in Beat Two was closed to traffic Monday evening after a truck accident and will remain closed until a replacement is completed.

Beat Two Supervisor A.A. Kellar closed the bridge, which for several months has been open to light traffic only, after a seismic truck attempted to cross it and caused part of one end of the structure to collapse.

Kellar said Wednesday that the truck did not fall completely through the bridge but the weight of the vehicle destroyed some of its timbers. No one on the truck was reported injured.

The supervisor said he questioned residents of the Old Dossett Road area about reopening the bridge to light traffic. Those he talked to were in favor of letting the bridge remain closed, Kellar said.

He also said he has not been able to talk to the crew of the seismic truck and find out why they attempted to cross the bridge.

Funding for the replacement of the bridge was recently made available through the State Aid Road Program and the board of

Judge dismisses charges against Watson, Barletter

By DENA BISNETTE

Charges of kidnapping, rape and assault and battery filed against two Bay St. Louis residents after they were arrested last month were dismissed Wednesday in city court.

Bay St. Louis Municipal Judge Joseph Benvenuti dismissed multiple charges against Rene Barletter, 22, and Willie Watson, 23, at a Wednesday afternoon hearing. Benvenuti said he dismissed the charges on a motion from the defendants' attorney after he had heard testimony from police officers and a prosecution witness failed to attend the hearing.

Watson had been arrested at his residence at 313 S. Necaise Street on Nov. 16 after he and Barletter had allegedly picked up a woman outside the Junior Food Market on St. Francis Street, raped her and assaulted her.

Barletter had turned himself in at the Bay St. Louis Police Department on the same day.

Watson was also charged with attempted robbery after allegedly threatening the woman and telling her to bring him some money before letting her go, according to a report made by Acting Police Chief Murray Ladner shortly after the arrests.

Hancock General institutes holiday safety program

Hancock General Hospital has instituted a holiday safety program called FriendShip.

The program is coordinated with the police departments of Bay St. Louis and Waveland and the Hancock County Sheriff's Department.

Anyone who has had too much to drink to drive safely can summon a "FriendShip" by calling Hancock General at 467-9080.

The hospital will then contact a local law enforcement agent, who will take the caller home with no tickets issued and no lectures given, a hospital spokesman reported.

The service is free and confidential, and the only restriction is that callers must let the drivers take them home, not to other parties or bars, the hospital noted.

The FriendShip program and similar projects have been successful in other areas, reducing traffic accidents, deaths and driving-while-under-the-influence arrests, the spokesman added.

"We believe drunken driving is a serious problem nationwide," said Phillip Langston, Hancock General administrator. "We are pleased to do our part to combat the problem here in our community."

The FriendShip service will be available Friday through Tuesday, Dec. 21 through 25, and Friday through Tuesday, Dec. 28 through Jan. 1.

Langston indicated the hospital would evaluate the success of the program with an eye toward its continuation.

MAE pushing for $3,500 annual teacher pay hike

The Mississippi Association of Educators (MAE) has begun stepping up its activities to secure a $3,500 salary increase for the state's teachers, despite recent budget proposals from the Mississippi Legislative Budget Commission and Governor Bill Allain.

"We are, of course, disappointed by the recent budget recommendations from the governor and the Legislative Budget Commission, but we recognize that both the governor and the commission are limited to proposing a budget that stays within the revenues generated by current taxes," stated Alice Harden, president of MAE, the state's largest teacher organization. The governor has proposed a five percent salary increase for teachers while the commission recommendation contained no increase for teachers.

"MAE will continue to pursue a $3,500 salary increase as a first step toward bringing Mississippi salaries to the Southeastern states' average," continued Mrs. Harden. "Our organization will be talking with the Governor and legislative leaders, such as Speaker of the House C. B. Newman, Lt. Governor Brad Dye and chairs of the various legislative committees. We will be asking them to take a leadership role in coming up with the revenues that are necessary for an adequate teacher salary increase," commented Mrs. Harden.

The MAE president pointed out that the legislature and the people of Mississippi must not take a narrow view of the importance of a salary increase for teachers. "We may be nearing a crisis in education in Mississippi because we are losing our qualified and competent teachers to other states and other careers. A significant salary increase for teachers is necessary to stabilize the teaching staffs in our schools. This is the most important ingredient to any education reform movement that is meant to increase the quality of education programs for the students of the state," continued Mrs. Harden.

The MAE president pointed out that a quality education program is the key to the economic development so desperately needed in Mississippi. "If we are to develop our economy in Mississippi and raise our standard of living and our per capita income, we must make education our first priority and this means providing a large enough salary increase to keep our teachers in the classroom," said Mrs. Harden.

MAE expects to have the results by mid-December of an all-educator survey that the organization is conducting throughout the state.

"The survey will give the most comprehensive assessment of teachers' concerns, the state has seen. This information will be an aid to MAE in our lobbying efforts to promote excellence in education for Mississippi students," concluded Mrs. Harden.

An insurance company reports that prominent people generally live longer than the average person. Famous scientists rank first in longevity. Next are clergymen, educators and military men. Then come executives, judges and lawyers. At the bottom of the list, with the shortest life expectancy, are writers and editors.

Martin Marietta earns praise for program

Martin Marietta Aerospace has been cited by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the Gulf South Minority Purchasing Council for an outstanding record in subcontracting to small and disadvantaged businesses by its Space Shuttle external tank program at the Michoud Assembly Facility.

Martin Marietta's Michoud Division awarded $56.4 million in subcontracts to small and disadvantaged firms during 1982 and 1983. NASA, reviewing this record, noted that the amount exceeded contract goals by $4.1 million.

The Gulf South Minority Purchasing Council, which represents businesses in Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama, subsequently awarded the company its Corporate Support Award.

Subcontracting work included reroofing the manufacturing building at Michoud, small machine shop work, and the procurement of sensors, vent line seals, valves, and raw materials. Approximately 30 percent of the work was performed by small firms in Louisiana, principally in the New Orleans area. Another 24 percent went to firms in California, with the remainder distributed throughout the country.

Martin Marietta Aerospace, which builds external fuel tanks for the Space Shuttle under contract to NASA's Marshall Space Center, Huntsville, Ala., has conducted an active small-business contracting program for many years.

County really needs additional office space

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors on Friday indicated an interest in the possible purchase of the McDonald Furniture Store building on Main Street.

Hancock County is growing very fast, and indications are that this growth will continue for many years.

Every governmental department located in the Hancock County Courthouse is pushed by a lack of space.

The building being considered is almost across the street from the county courthouse, so it would not cause any hardships because of location.

Presently the Hancock County assessor-tax collector has three different offices. Tax collecting department in the front section of the courthouse, assessing department in the back of the facility, and reassessment department located in the old county home behind the hospital.

At the supervisors meeting, the county's governing body indicated they felt the entire assessor-tax collector's operations could easily be moved into the Main Street building if owned by the county.

This would give much needed space for the Chancery Clerk's office which also is clerk for the board of supervisors, and more space also for the Circuit Clerk's office.

Our many courts are always increasing and this means the need for additional space, and would give the court clerks the additional working room needed.

If the assessor-tax collector's offices were all together in the same building this would cause a much smoother operation.

Computers are the tools of today and tomorrow for keeping records, and space is needed to operate these modern methods, and the acquiring of another building sure would help the assessor-tax collector, chancery and circuit clerk offices.

Our county assessor-tax collector's office has some 47,000 parcels of land, 20,000 motor vehicles, 1,000 mobile homes, 1,000 businesses, that in itself is a lot of records to keep.

We are hoping the Board of Supervisors will be able to purchase the much needed space to make our government operate more efficiently.

News From The Governor's Office

Gov. Bill Allain

HELPING PRISONERS

Prison overcrowding is a problem for the state of Mississippi, as many of you no doubt have heard on the news. But our church people are helping us in state government with another problem relating to prison inmates.

During a recent meeting of the state Parole Board, I noticed that some of the inmates eligible for parole did not have a job or a home to go to if they received paroles.

As a result, I have asked churches in communities across Mississippi to "adopt" former inmates as they are released from Parchman and other jails and prisons. That adoption could include anything from helping the parolee or former inmate in finding a job, to teaching basic education skills, to helping them find a place to stay.

If we can find productive training and employment for these people, who have paid for the crimes they committed, then they are far less likely to commit another crime out of desperation brought on by lack of money.

Since very few people can or should be imprisoned for life, we must find ways to help as many ex-offenders as possible lead crime-free lives.

Some of the groundwork for this program is begun inside the prison walls. Inmates receive education, training and religious counseling. But the aid must go beyond the walls of the prison; this essential need occurs once the person is back in society. Many of the ex-offenders do not have the skills to hold a job, and many don't even know how to look for one.

That lack of knowledge, combined with a prison record, starts the person out on what should be a new life with already two strikes against him.

Several church groups in Mississippi already are working to assist these people. Prison Fellowship, affiliated with the national organization, operates at Parchman and works through various churches throughout the state in assisting prisoners, their families, and ex-offenders.

Some of the other programs are Beginning Again in Christ, Voice of Calvary Ministries, Christian Jail Services, St. Therese Catholic Church, the United Methodist Church and the Mississippi Southern Baptist Convention, all located in Jackson; and Jail Ministry in Canton. We are trying to identify other programs throughout the state that can help.

Prisoners are paroled and released every day, and those releases will continue whether or not someone helps them. I just believe that Mississippians would rather give them the support they need to return to productive lives than turning their backs on them.

Medical Association urges prevention of CO poisoning

(Presented as a public service by the Mississippi State Medical Association and The Sea Coast Echo.)

Carbon monoxide poisoning is usually associated with automobiles, but it can occur just as easily in your own house if you are not careful, reminds the Mississippi State Medical Association.

Each year in Mississippi carbon monoxide poisoning causes tragic, accidental death.

Carbon monoxide (CO) is a colorless, odorless, tasteless gas produced every time a carbon-containing material burns.

The reason this gas is so dangerous is that CO combines with blood 200 times more easily than oxygen.

If you breathe air containing a normal amount of oxygen and even a moderate amount of CO, your blood will be starved for oxygen. When your blood cannot supply the oxygen to the brain, permanent brain damage and even death can result.

Dangerous amounts of CO can accumulate when a cool, slow fire burns in a limited air space. Since you cannot see, smell, or taste it the gas is hard to detect except by its symptoms.

They include: drowsiness, headache, tightness across the forehead, confusion, nausea, and muscular weakness.

Carbon monoxide poisoning can confuse you to the point where you cannot reach fresh air and prevent serious injury.

The Mississippi State Medical Association makes these suggestions to help you prevent carbon monoxide poisoning in your home:

—Have all heating systems checked annually for operating efficiency. Make sure all vents, pipes, flues and chimneys are tight.

—Make sure your heating plant is not starved for air.

—Provide additional fresh air for charcoal grills used indoors. Better still, always use charcoal grills outdoors.

—Don't close your fireplace damper until you are certain the fire is completely out.

—Be sure your garage is sealed from the house. And never let your car's engine run in a closed garage.

—Be sure that all heating devices designed for venting are properly vented to the outside.

Focus on Small Business

By Dorothy A. Overall
Public Information Officer
Biloxi Branch Office

Q—I'm always filling out forms and paying one kind of tax or another. Any suggestions on how to keep tax time from always sneaking up on me?

A—The owner-manager of a successful retail store or service shop takes care of bills by:

—Knowing in advance the amount and due date of bills.

—Making sure that funds are on hand for paying the bills.

—Paying bills on or before the due date in order to get the discounts offered by the suppliers.

—Getting expert advice to keep abreast of new developments that may make bill paying more efficient.

The owner-manager of a small business plays two roles in managing taxes.

In one role, he or she is a debtor. In the other, an agent.

In the role of debtor, he or she is liable for various taxes and paying them is part of business obligations.

For example, each year an owner owes federal income taxes which are paid out of business earnings.

In the role of agent, the owner-manager collects various taxes and passes the funds on to the appropriate government agency.

For example, each payroll federal income and Social Security taxes are deducted from employee wages.

Whether agent or debtor, the small business owner is responsible for paying his or her own taxes and those which are collected from others.

Manage taxes as you manage any other aspect of your business. Make sure that you file tax reports when they are due and pay the tax on time. Failure to file or pay taxes when due can bring penalties (fines and/or jail sentences) and interest on the tax money involved. Make sure that you have the cash on hand when a particular tax is due. Some owner-managers do it by putting the required funds in a separate bank account on a systematic basis. Others do it by arranging for loans at the appropriate times.

There have been a lot of comments on the warm weather in recent days.

The 80 degree-plus temperatures have brought out the short sleeved shirts and it looks like it is springtime instead of winter.

It has been several years since the temperatures have been as warm as this winter.

Motorists hate the amount of fog we have been having, as it makes driving hard.

We realize the cold weather really appeared at Christmas last year for us and it may be waiting for the holiday season.

One thing is for sure, we can talk about the weather, but we cannot do anything about it.

Firefighters, Hancock County sheriff's deputies, and Bay St. Louis and Waveland patrolmen will start today making deliveries of toys to many deserving boys and girls.

Bay St. Louis Fire Chief Andrew Lizana, the Hancock County Doll and Toy Fund chairman, reports he has received very good support from the public this year.

Firefighters are Santa's helpers and they have been very busy getting a lot of used toys in top shape for distribution.

In addition there have been several folks who have given new toys, and money.

Local merchants give Chief Lizana good prices on toys which is really appreciated.

The Hancock County Doll and Toy Fund is an agency of the United Way of Hancock County.

We were amazed by the tremendous improvements which have been made in the old county home which is now used by the Extension Service.

A lot of work went into cleaning, painting and renovating the building and the county only spent a very few dollars on the project.

Lee Taylor, county agent; Darlene Underwood, home economist; Gwen Elmore, 4-H agent; and Mrs. Ethel Favre, longtime secretary to the group, are all to be commended for an outstanding job.

We know Hancock County Jail trustees did a lot of the physical work, and that was the utilization of a labor force available with the right guidance.

A lot of our residents from the county and both cities use the many services offered by the Extension Service and we know they appreciate the new offices.

If you are in the area after the holidays, you may want to stop by the offices and take a tour and see the impressive work which has been done.

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

FAIRNESS IN THE STATE AID SYSTEM

If you're concerned about fairness in the use of state tax dollars you'll be pleased with the work of a study committee from the House of Representatives. A subcommittee of the House Highways Committee is taking a new look at the state aid road system, the system under which the state pours money into county roads.

There's no question about it; the state aid system has been one of Mississippi's finest examples of effective government. The system, adopted in the late 1940's has produced quality farm-to-market roads through every county in the state and, generally, the money has been well used.

The problem today is that state aid road money is still being distributed to the counties under the formula adopted forty years ago. The Legislature has ignored, to this point, population shifts and changing economic patterns among the counties. The result is that some counties with small populations are receiving more state aid dollars than are the growing counties with expanding populations.

For example, Greene County, with a population of less than 10,000, receives just about the same amount of state aid road money as Hinds County with a population of more than 250,000; and Greene County receives more state aid money than do Harrison and Jackson Counties, the state's second and third largest counties.

Fairness, and best use of tax dollars, demands a revision in the distribution formula. Hopefully, we will see that change in the 1985 legislative session.

Changing traditions alter holiday activities

EDITOR'S NOTE: Holiday celebrations are changing because our consumer patterns are altering the way we feel about many holiday activities. This third of a four-part series outlines how gift-giving has been changed for one fictional Mississippi family.

By Nelda Starks

Gift giving once caused the Joe Green family some real headaches. Each year the expense seemed to grow until Joe finally decided it must come to a halt.

Rather than buying gifts, Joe and his wife, Kelly, along with their children, Maureen and Lester, have chosen to put more of themselves into gifts by making as many as possible.

During canning season, Kelly puts up a few extra jars of jam, jellies, relishes and fruits that can be given as gifts separately or as part of a food kit.

For example, this year Kelly will give a bread kit to her next door neighbor, April Raines.

April works full time and has little time to cook but likes to serve her family hot bread.

Kelly will make a quick bread mix April can use to make a variety of muffins. A jar of mix and a jar of homemade jelly will be included in an inexpensive basket April can use later to serve her muffins.

Kelly's brother-in-law, Stan, is single and spends little time cooking. Kelly will give him a chili dinner set. It will contain a jar of kidney beans, a frozen hamburger mix, chili seasoning mix, a jar of peaches, a cornbread mix and a jar of jam. Kelly will make sure Stan puts the frozen meat in the freezer rather than under the tree.

RELATIVES FAR AWAY

Joe's great-aunt Hazel lives in Cincinnati. Hazel is elderly and has asked the Greens not to send knickknacks, kitchen equipment, clothes or other items she feels clutter her small apartment.

Joe thought of sending cash, but this was too impersonal for a favorite aunt. Son, Lester, suggested pecans, since they are representative of Mississippi. Aunt Hazel can use them in many ways. Kelly mailed the gift in early November so Hazel can use part of the nuts in her own holiday baking. She also sent along a pamphlet of recipes.

Hazel wrote in her Christmas card to the Greens that she has some trouble eating nuts because of her dentures, but she plans to make some pecan butter in her blender. It makes great grilled sandwiches, is full of protein and has about the same number of calories as peanut butter.

WHAT ABOUT FRIENDS

The children will enjoy exchanging gifts with their classmates. There has always been a $2 to $5 limit per gift, but it is now difficult to find something in that price range.

This year daughter Maureen and Lester will make batches of gorp. They found candy-coated chocolates on sale after Halloween, bought raw peanuts in season to roast and freeze and bought boxes of raisins on sale in early December.

As Christmas approaches, the children plan to mix the three ingredients and put them in empty jars. They will cover the lids with wrapping paper, put on some ribbons and be ready for the gift exchange.

The peanuts and raisins provide iron and other nutrients to make parents happy and there was enough chocolate candy to please the children.

Other friends will receive loaves of bread, cheese balls or cookies that the Greens had made earlier in the fall and frozen. This not only saves time during the holidays, but spreads the cost of giving over several months.

All the Greens enjoy and encourage friends to drop in during the holidays. Kelly once spent a good part of the visits in the kitchen preparing something to serve rather than with the guests.

This year Kelly will make several cakes early in November, cut them into serving pieces, wrap each piece and freeze them. She will store all the frozen cakes and pies in a large, plastic bag.

When friends drop by, she can pull out an assortment of cake pieces and thaw them quickly in the microwave or oven. She will serve them sprinkled with powdered sugar, with canned or frozen fruit, with a commercially canned frosting or a dollop of frozen, whipped topping.

During the holidays, Kelly also keeps coffee on hand in the refrigerator to reheat in the microwave or she uses instant coffee.

There are always fresh vegetable sticks ready to serve from a plastic bin in the refrigerator.

For those who may drop in for dinner, Kelly keeps a casserole or two in the freezer. She can bake it from the frozen state in either the oven or microwave.

Is an IRA right for you?

You've heard all the talk about Individual Retirement Accounts. The tax break you get. The retirement income you can count on.

But, you're probably wondering if an IRA is right for you.

"Don't you need $2,000?"

If you work, you can start an IRA at Hancock Bank with as little as $5.00. Then, just put in what you want, when you want.

You don't have to contribute every month, or even every year. But your money keeps on working for you, earning interest.

The money you put in is not taxable until you take it out. Even the interest is sheltered.

"How much can I put away?"

If you're employed, you can put up to $2,000 in your IRA. $2,000 each for working couples. Or, a $2,250 combined total for a couple if only one of you is employed.

If you deposit at least $2,000, you're eligible for your choice of 18-month or 30-month fixed-interest rates. Amounts less than $2,000 earn money-market rates that change monthly. When your IRA builds up to $2,000, we'll be happy to lock in a fixed rate for you. It's usually higher.

"How can I get a tax break? I don't even itemize."

You don't have to itemize to get the tax break. At the bottom of a regular IRS 1040 form, the money you put in your IRA comes right off the top of your taxable income.

You can start your IRA and take the deduction right up until the time you file. But don't wait past April 15th, even if you get a tax extension. That's a firm deadline this year.

"When can I get my money?"

You can start taking money out of your IRA at age 59½. Of course, it's your money, and you can take it out any time you want. But the federal government imposes a 10% penalty for withdrawal before 59½. And if your money is in a fixed-rate time deposit, there may be an additional penalty.

So, think of your IRA as a long-term investment for retirement. Not a temporary tax shelter or savings for emergencies.

When you reach 59½, you can get your IRA in one lump sum, or set up a regular monthly income.

Or, if you choose, you can wait until 70½ to start receiving payments.

"I only have a little to put in now. Would I have much by retirement?"

Let's say you're 30 years old, and in the 29% tax bracket. Look at how $50.00 a month would add up:

Estimated value at age 65: (based on 10% interest)
TOTAL DEPOSIT OVER 35 YEARS	$ 21,000.00
TAX SAVINGS	6,090.00
TOTAL INVESTMENT	14,910.00
ESTIMATED IRA VALUE	172,252.00
ESTIMATED MONTHLY PAYMENT FOR 15 YEARS	2,027.00
TOTAL RETURN	$364,858.00

A SPINAL CURVATURE CAN SAP YOUR HEALTH

Scientific Chiropractic has gained much knowledge regarding the causes and correction of spinal curvatures. Curvatures of the spine can be so great that one can easily see the person is twisted. Others are very slight, but many curvatures are responsible for sickly children and poor health in adults. A curvature of the spine slows the adult person down and saps away his energy and strength and even his resistance, making him always feel tired, fatigued, and robbing him of much good health and the long life he should enjoy. Chiropractic research has brought out the technical skills necessary to correct the majority of these spinal curvatures. As a rule, children no longer need to go through life with a crooked back, and adults, too, can have the structural stability of their spines restored. Correction of these conditions helps to bring forth a surge of new vigor and vitality, energy and strength which go to make up the ingredients of good health.

"What's a Self-Directed IRA?"

It's a new service offered by Hancock Bank that lets you make the investment decisions on your IRA.

Suppose you want to buy blue-chip stocks, mutual funds, or the new zero-coupon bonds. You simply call Hancock Bank and tell us where you want to invest. We won't advise you — it's your decision. But we can make the investment for you, usually for less than you'd be charged at a regular brokerage firm.

But remember, there are some important differences between self-directed IRAs and regular IRAs. At Hancock Bank, you don't have to pay fees or commissions on our regular IRAs. However, on self-directed accounts, you do pay fees.

Every regular Hancock Bank IRA is insured up to $100,000 by an agency of the federal government. But investing in the stock market with a self-directed IRA is not insured.

So, if you're depending on your IRA for retirement, you might be better off with our regular IRAs. Or just putting some of your money in a self-directed IRA.

Either way, the decision's up to you.

"I'm interested. Who should I call?"

We've tried to clear up some questions about IRAs. And if you're beginning to think an IRA is the way to go for you, you're on the right track.

So, pick up the phone and call Mae Beth Tracy at 868-4406. She'll answer any other questions you might have. She'll quote you our current rates.

And, if you like, Mae Beth will fill out an application form with you over the phone and mail it to you. So, all you'll have to do is sign it at home, and send it in with your first deposit.

Or come by any of our offices to ask about IRAs. We're always glad to see you.

But, open your IRA now. You'll enjoy the satisfaction of getting a tax break this year. While you build an income for retirement.

Chamber's verdict still out on whether to support Amtrak

BY DENA BISNETTE

Members of the Hancock Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors are being polled to see if they support continued funding for

JOSEPH COLSON

Amtrak's Gulf Coast Limited. Chamber Director Clarice Gustin reported Wednesday that she was still in the process of polling the 20 directors after several of them met Tuesday to hear the pros and the cons on the continuation of the train's run past Jan. 6.

If the majority of members agree, the chamber will send a letter to local legislators asking them to request that Mississippi continue to provide funding as a member of the Tri-state Rapid Rail Transit Commission.

Chamber board members were addressed by commission representative Delmer Wilcox of Waveland in addition to Joseph Colson, a local resident who opposes funding the train.

Wilcox reported that Mississippi is the only state in the commission not providing funding to continue the train's run. Alabama and Louisiana have already agreed to fund the project for another year, he said.

Wilcox feels the train, which stops in Waveland, is providing a service to the Gulf Coast by bringing in Louisiana residents who spend money in Mississippi.

He dismissed recent claims that the train is taking money away from Mississippi, saying, "Just because a few elderly retired people get on the train and go to New Orleans and spend a few nickels, people object to it."

He said he has gotten numerous endorsements supporting the continuation of the Gulf Coast Limited beyond Jan. 6, the day current funding runs out.

Some of those endorsements come from the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland and from the Hancock County Board of Supervisors.

Colson said the train's ridership does not justify continued funding. Ridership numbered about 300 passengers per day during the 1984 World's Fair but has now dropped to as low as three passengers on a weekday and six on a weekend.

"I've interviewed some of the riders and I've been told that a lot of them are riding simply because their children have never been on a train before," Colson said.

He said merchants in New Orleans have been using promotions to try to increase ridership but said he expects fewer people to use the train after the Christmas holiday season ends.

He also said the train's schedule is inconvenient to weekend visitors to the Gulf Coast because they must arrive after 7 p.m. Friday and must leave Sunday morning in order to use the train. In addition, there is no cab service of any kind at the Waveland stop.

Colson disputed claims by Wilcox that coastal residents and politicians support continued funding, saying he has checked with legislators who expressed opposition as well as local politicians.

He said he had talked to one city official who had received 61 telephone calls about the train in a single day. Of those, 60 were opposed to continuing funding.

Wilcox and Colson both favored the commission's proposal that a commuter line starting in Ocean Springs and ending in New Orleans be started along the coast.

However, Wilcox contends that keeping the Gulf Coast Limited is essential to getting public support and funding for a commuter train.

Colson contends that keeping the Limited has no bearing on efforts to establish a commuter line since a commuter line would not involve Amtrak. The federal government prohibits Amtrak from establishing commuter lines.

REAL VIEWS ON REAL ESTATE

CONTINUING EDUCATION

Q: I understand that more and more states are requiring real estate brokers to meet a continuing education requirement prior to relicensing. Is there such a requirement in this state and if not, what are the postlicensing requirements? B.T., Raymond

A: Dear B.T.:

The real estate industry is considered by many to be a trade rather than a profession, mainly due to the lack of educational requirements considered prerequisite to professionalism.

It is difficult to believe that the only requirement in some states for licensing a person to deal with the average family's biggest investment is a successful score on the real estate examination.

Many professional groups support involvement in voluntary continuing education activities. Others, such as those in medicine, law and accountancy, require continuing education for relicensing.

As with prelicensing educational requirements these are decided at the state level through the legislature.

Currently 24 states and the District of Columbia have continuing education requirements for relicensing of real estate brokers and salespersons.

These requirements vary greatly in those jurisdictions that have enacted legislation. Mississippi does not currently have such a relicensing requirement.

In 1983, 14 states had either continuing education proposals that failed before their legislatures or were considering such legislation.

Since that time, five of these states have statutes mandating continuing education.

Many people believe that in this state, legislation will be submitted before the next legislative session proposing continuing education for real estate brokers and salespersons in Mississippi.

Hospital employees receive certification

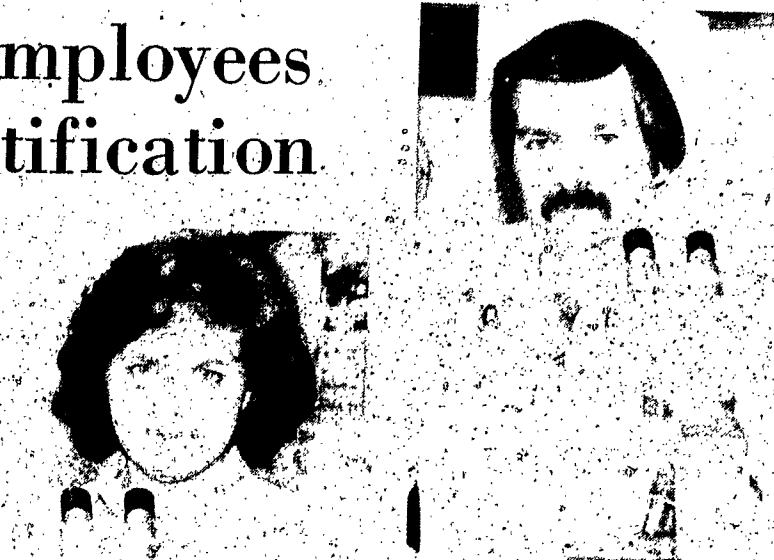

Theresa Dubuisson and Richard Flowers, laboratory personnel at Hancock General Hospital, recently completed professional certification by the American Society of Clinical Pathologists.

Dubuisson, a recent graduate of the University of Southern Mississippi with a BS in medical technology, successfully finished her registry examination in medical technology.

She completed her internship with honors at Memorial Hospital in Gulfport in August before joining the laboratory staff at Hancock General.

Flowers, laboratory manager at Hancock General, has successfully completed the requirements for a specialty in microbiology.

Armed robbery, burglaries, vandalism keep police busy

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Two men were apprehended in a Bay St. Louis business during a routine check by a police task force unit early Tuesday morning.

Murray Ladner, Bay acting chief of police, said, "Willie Nelson, 28, 436 Washington St., and Steven Troy Saucier, 21, Sycamore Street Apartment 27, both of Bay St. Louis, were arrested at 12:15 a.m. on Tuesday morning at the ABC Rental, US-90."

"The two suspects were observed by officers inside ABC Rental apparently attempting to take equipment and tools," Ladner added.

An arraignment was held before Bay Municipal Judge Joseph Benvenuti on Tuesday and bond was set at $5,000 each. A preliminary hearing will be scheduled before Benvenuti, Joe Pica, Bay investigator in charge of the case, reported.

The suspects, charged with burglary, allegedly had entered the back of the building, Ladner stated.

Officers making the arrest were Patrolmen Pam Clark, Frank Williams, William Brown, with assistance from Don Coss, Hancock County deputy sheriff.

In other police activities, two juveniles were arrested on Wednesday by Delbert Seay, Hancock County sheriff's investigator, in connection with a recent vandalism of Charles B. Murphy School in Pearlinton.

Seay said, "We are expecting to make an arrest of a third juvenile in the case involving serious vandalism at the school. The two juveniles arrested were turned over to the Hancock County Youth Court authorities."

Seay is also investigating the Monday night armed robbery of the Pearlinton Jr. Food Store.

"At approximately 1:15 a.m.

Tuesday, the store manager was struck over the head by a bottle of Gator Aide, his life threatened if he did not open the safe," Seay allowed.

The suspect was described as a black male and possibly was just passing through, Seay said.

In another matter, two other subjects were arrested last weekend for allegedly firing a weapon through a Pearlinton residence.

"Evelyn Alexander, 39, and Rush Alexander, 31, both General Delivery, Pearlinton, were charged with aggravated assault for firing a weapon in a residence in the community, and a third is being sought," Alvin Ladner, Hancock County sheriff's investigator, reported.

Two juveniles and two adults were also arrested by Seay in connection with a recent burglary of a Bayou Phillips residence.

Seay said, "Randy Powell, 18, P.O. Box 1268, Bay St. Louis; and George E. Zingerling IV, 19, P.O. Box 215, Lakeshore and two juveniles are charged with the alleged burglary of a Bayou Phillips residence on Dec. 12."

The two juveniles who were arrested on Dec. 12 were turned over to Youth Court Authorities, and the adults were arrested on Tuesday of this week, Seay stated.

Powell and Zingerling are charged with burglary of a dwelling and are to appear before a Hancock County Justice Court judge.

Steve Tarver, 22, St. John St., Bay St. Louis was also charged with attempted grand larceny involving a pickup truck last week, according to Alvin Ladner.

Ladner stated, "Tarver allegedly went into the yard of a Lakeshore residence and was attempting to steal a pickup truck when caught in the act by the vehicle's owner. He was held by the owner until deputies arrived to take him in custody."

Tarver's bond was set at $5,000 while awaiting a Justice Court judge's preliminary hearing.

Medical assistants install

Coastal Counties Medical Assistants officers were recently installed at the Christmas party at the Broadwater Beach Hotel in Biloxi.

Dr. Katharine A. Pyron, state and chapter advisor performed the jewel installation chosen by incoming president Beverley J. Wallace, CMA-A.

Also installed were Mary Ellen Ladner, vice-president; Eileen Hanson, LPN, secretary; Helen Donohop, CMA-A, treasurer; and Quin Bloom and Thelma VanCloonstere, RN, executive board. Wallace, a native of Johnstown, Pa., has been in the medical profession for the past 24 years. She began her career in medical assisting as assistant supervisor of admissions at Holyoke General Hospital in Holyoke, Mass.

Her first stay on the Coast was from 1966-1973 and she returned in 1977 to Gulfport where she and her husband John, who retired from the USAF at Keesler, are presently living.

Wallace joined the staff of Dr. Pyron in 1977 where she is presently employed as office manager. She received her certification as a Medical Assistant in 1983 and also has her administrative specialty.

A member of the Coast Counties Chapter since 1968, she has served as secretary, treasurer, vice-president, president-elect and executive board member. She also has been Education chairperson several times.

When two people agree on everything, one of them is doing all the thinking.

House approves veterans' benefits

The U.S. House of Representatives has approved an omnibus veterans' benefits package that would provide a 3.2 percent cost-of-living increase in the rates of compensation paid to over two million service-connected disabled veterans.

Congressman G.V. (Sonny) Montgomery (D-MS), chairman of the House Committee on Veterans' Affairs, says he is pleased with the "comprehensive scope" of the measure, the result of a House/Senate compromise, but adds that he "would have preferred a somewhat higher cost-of-living adjustment, nearer the 4.3 percent the House originally approved."

H. R. 5688, the Veterans' Benefits Improvements Act of 1984, would also provide a 3.2 percent increase in dependency and indemnity (DIC) compensation rates for surviving spouses and children of veterans who die of service-connected causes. Both cost-of-living adjustments would become effective December 1, 1984.

Other provisions of the measure include:

- a 10 percent cost-of-living increase in Vietnam-era GI Bill benefits, effective Oct. 1, 1984;
- a two-year extension of the Veterans Readjustment Appointment Program, designed to enable Vietnam-era and disabled veterans to obtain federal employment;
- an extension of the Emergency Veterans' Job Training Program;
- a four-year pilot program to provide education and vocational training for younger veterans on the pension rolls, geared toward placing these veterans back into productive jobs;
- an increase in the specially-adapted housing grant from $32,500 to $35,500, effective Jan. 1, 1985;
- an increase in the one-time automobile adaptive equipment grant from $4,400 to $5,000, effective Jan. 1, 1985.

(The housing and automobile grants are for severely-disabled service-connected veterans.)

Congressman Marvin Leath (D-TX), chairman of the Veterans' Affairs Subcommittee on Education, Training and Employment, says he is especially pleased that veterans will be given additional time to participate in the Emergency Veterans' Job Training Program.

According to Leath, "More time is needed to promote the program and to encourage employer participation. I intend to conduct oversight hearings early next year to determine if additional extensions are needed."

H. R. 5688 provides that an eligible veteran will have through Feb. 28, 1985, to apply for job training under the innovative program, which pays participating employers one-half of a veteran's starting wage during the training period. The measure also extends to Sept. 1, 1985, the period of time a veteran with a certificate of eligibility must have begun his training.

Congressman Douglas Applegate (D-Ohio), chairman of the Veterans' Affairs Subcommittee on Compensation, Pension and Insurance, considers one of the highlights of the bill to be the program to provide vocational training for younger pensioners who become totally disabled after leaving service.

Applegate explains it: "Under this program, the VA would contact individuals who have just become disabled, sometimes catastrophically, who are newly eligible for non-service-connected pension, and offer them counseling and assistance. Its cost will be recovered many times over when this counseling and training enables the veteran to work and get off the pension rolls."

Applegate expressed disappointment over the Senate's refusal to accept a House-endorsed provision regarding Servicemen's Group Life Insurance (SGLI). The Senate insisted on limiting a $15,000 increase in the maximum SGLI coverage to individuals with a minimum of five or more years of service.

Applegate says he does not see "how the Senate could justify its position that the widow of a Marine with five years and one month of service is more deserving of an extra $15,000 insurance than the widow of another Marine who had only three years of service." The Congressman referred to last year's tragic events in Beirut and Grenada in which 198 of the 248 servicemen who died had less than five years of service. Of this group, 53 were survived by a widow and/or children.

Montgomery called the Senate provision "inequitable and unacceptable" and assured the House that the SGLI increase would be reviewed during the first session of the 99th Congress.

"Though we didn't see eye to eye with the other body on every issue covered by this legislation, we were able to come up with what I believe to be a reasonable compromise," said Montgomery.

One thing that distinguishes the human species from others is that we're the only animals you'll find standing in lines.

She soon discovered talent in one of her students, portrayed by Ian Saynor, and together they study for two years. Miss Moffat encourages him to try for a scholarship to Trinity College at Oxford, but a series of obstacles stands in their way.

One test of good manners is to be able to put up pleasantly with bad ones.

Council declares emergency to repair intersection

The Bay St. Louis city council declared an emergency situation to repair the manhole at the intersection of Nécalse and State streets.

Utilities Superintendent Norbert Redmond reported that there had been a cave-in around the manhole and there were broken sewage and water lines.

It needs to be repaired immediately, he said.

Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett submitted to the board three bids for the repair work which includes replacing seven lines and the manhole.

Seagull Contractors, Incorporated of Gulfport was the low bidder with a bid of $18,750.

The council awarded the bid to Seagull Contractors and employed Broadway Engineers of Piquette to oversee the project.

Following a brief discussion the council approved the motions submitted by the Bay Planning and Zoning Commission.

The commission had approved Monday a request for a zoning change of two lots on Burnett Street, from R-1 (single family residential) to R-1B (single-family residential B).

Representing property-owner E. B. Kemp III, Nell Frisbee of Nell Frisbee Realtors requested the change so Kemp could proceed with a special subdivision request.

The commission also approved the special subdivision request by Frisbee.

Councilmen Gary Griffin and Harry Farve were opposed to the recommendations of the commission.

In other business:

The council voted to send a letter to the state governor's office in support of Amtrack;

—Bay St. Louis resident Geraldine Lang requested the council grant an across-the-board gas rate reduction to needy families. The board took the matter under advisement;

—The council approved a motion to grant a hearing for suspended police officer Robert Butler as a show of good will; and —The council agreed to install a water line for Pine Street resident David Williams, provided Williams paid for the materials.

Lott denies plans to enter senate race

Susan Irby, press secretary for Representative Trent Lott Wednesday denied reports that Lott will seek the senate seat if vacated by John C. Stennis.

"There is no vacancy in the senate and therefore it is inappropriate to be talking about a senate race," she said.

Irby added Lott did not talk to any member of the Republican Executive Committee about plans to be a candidate if there was a senate election in 1985 and did not make any announcement about these plans.

"Our hopes and prayers are for Senator Stennis' full recovery and we look forward to having him back in the 99th congress," she added.

USM to continue courses

The Health, Physical Education and Recreation Department at the University of Southern Mississippi has received funding for the sixth year for a series of courses being taught to U.S. Air Force personnel.

According to Dr. Charles Burchell, chairman and professor of USM's Recreation Department, USM is the only university, as far as he knows, that has worked with the military branches on this specific type of instruction program.

The $41,479 project provides semester hours credit and coordinates training schools for the Air Force Reserve in areas dealing with recreation. "We do for the Air Force Reserve what Keesler Air Force Base does for the regular Air Force," Burchell said.

The students, Burchell explained, are reservists and Civil Service employees who work on Air Force Reserve host bases. The students will come to USM from more than 20 states for the courses which are taught throughout the academic year.

Five courses are taught, including two that are offered twice. Subjects include organizational administration in recreation, business procedures in recreation, military recreation and management skills, advanced military management, advanced club management and some oral and written communications.

The courses originally were planned on a two-week basis so reserve personnel could complete their summer duty by completing the course.

Some of the courses are taught by military personnel. The remainder are taught by faculty at USM from various departments including intramural recreation, institution administration, management and communications.

In the past, he explained, the courses have been taught in various locations on Air Force Reserve bases. This year, the major portion of the course work will be taught on USM's Hattiesburg campus due, he said, to the good reviews received last year.

Local participation needed for grant for Bayou Cadet

BY DENA BISNETTE

State officials say local participation will be crucial in obtaining funding for a proposed marina at Bayou Cadet.

In an effort to find out what must be done to obtain funding, members of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, Port and Harbor Commission, Gulf Regional Planning Commission and South Mississippi Planning and Development District and Senator Gene Taylor met Tuesday with representatives of the Governor's Office of State and Federal Programs, the agency that administers Community Development Block Grants.

After a three-hour delay caused by fog at the Gulfport Municipal Airport, the state officials visited Bayou Cadet with local officials to look at the need for some kind of marina as well as a possible site.

Thomas Dyson, deputy director of the office, said the proposed marina could be eligible for a grant if a detailed plan can be worked out.

The county would be assisted by Gulf Regional and SMPDD in working out a plan and grant application and has already discussed a very general outline of the type of facility needed in order to arrive at a cost estimate.

It would take about $2 million to build a marina with boat slips, loading and unloading docks, refueling areas and other needed facilities, according to Jeff Taylor of SMPDD.

The county has already committed $500,000 to the project if other funding can be found.

Dyson suggested that the county ask either Bay St. Louis, Waveland or both cities to participate in the project since cities are allowed by law to have harbor, port or marina facilities outside their corporate limits.

The county could ask for $750,000, and the cities could ask for $750,000, he explained.

He called the idea of a marina at Bayou Cadet "a very workable project." However, he cautioned the officials about the amount of funding required.

"If you're going to ask for $1.5 million, you're going to have to create a lot of jobs, Dyson said.

He also suggested that the county involve private citizens by offering them low-interest loans to start or expand businesses at Bayou Cadet and providing some of the marina support facilities in that manner.

Money repaid to the county could be used to set up a revolving loan account for future development.

"We have the infrastructure here, but these people literally have no place to tie up their boats," Senator Taylor said, explaining that Bayou

Cadet already has some of the businesses needed by a marina and is used by numerous fishermen and other boat owners.

Bayou Cadet presently is the site of two seafood businesses, an ice house, a small shipyard and the Hancock County Marina, which is leased to the Gulf Coast Fisherman's Association.

According to Terry Ladner, who owns the ice house there, Bayou Cadet is presently used by about 100 boats, most of which are fishing boats. However, about 27 of the boats are used in gas-related industries.

Because the board of supervisors was not in formal session Tuesday, no action has been taken on Dyson's suggestions.

State Senate committee slates lottery hearing

The public will have the opportunity to voice opinions on allowing lotteries in Mississippi when the Senate Constitution Committee holds a public hearing on the subject during the second week of the 1985 Legislative Session.

The hearing will be at 2 p.m. on Tuesday, Jan. 15 in the former Supreme Court Chamber, second floor, New Capitol.

"We will give proponents and opponents the opportunity to speak at this hearing," said Senator Howard Dyer of Greenville, Chairman of the Constitution Committee.

Dyer authored the resolution which proposes an amendment to the Constitution to permit lotteries in the state when specifically authorized by law.

If the resolution passes both the Senate and the House of Representatives, it will be placed on the ballot in the general election in November, 1986 for a vote by the people of the state.

Anyone who would like to speak at the hearing should call Mrs. Rosaline Ross at 359-3237 or write to her at the Mississippi State Senate, P.O. Box 1018, Jackson, Ms 39205 before Friday, Jan. 11 in order to be placed on the agenda.

ETV Brief

BURTON & O'TOOLE
"Becket," starring Richard Burton and Peter O'Toole, will be rebroadcast on Mississippi ETV at 8 p.m., Wednesday, Dec. 26.

The two actors—as Becket and Henry, respectively—recreate a historic confrontation between friendship and principle in the acclaimed film, first shown on ETV in 1962. Based on the play by Jean Anouilh, the production follows the relationship of King Henry II and his friend Thomas Becket from their youthful preoccupation with women and wine to their ultimate alienation.

Becket first accepts the role of pragmatic confidante to Henry, a descendant of the conquering Normans. Becket neatly avoids questions of principle in his early friendship with the king and willingly accepts when Henry appoints him to be Chancellor of England. The friendship erupts into a conflict of honor when Henry maneuvers Becket's ordination as head of the Church of England.

"Becket" will be rebroadcast at 1 p.m., Saturday, Dec. 29.

Bridge

supervisors is expected to approve advertising for bids on Jan. 7.

Bids will be opened and a contract let in February, but because of the work involved the concrete replacement bridge will probably not be usable until April, Kellar said.

He said he is presently involved in securing five easements needed before the advertisements can be made and had talked to four of the five property owners by Wednesday morning.

County Engineer Larry Seal said the project is expected to cost about $120,000 and has already been approved by the Federal Highway Administration and the State Aid Program's bridge replacement division.

Replacing the bridge involves installation of double box culverts and fill material as well as raising the elevation of the bridge to improve drainage.

Since efforts to replace the bridge have been underway for several months, the project schedule will probably not be accelerated.

"There is no way I know of to speed this project up and get the bridge replaced sooner," Seal said.

Seal said the bridge had been closed on a prior occasion after a yearly inspection showed that it was no longer safe for heavy traffic, but the barricades and signs had been removed and apparently stolen.

The bridge has not been used by county school buses for about a year now but was being used by light vehicles such as mail jeeps.

According to Kellar, a few local residents had also been using the bridge to avoid a detour of several miles but he said they were aware of its condition.

Staff Sgt. Peter C. Beaulieu, son of Ivan A. and Irene Beaulieu of Van Buren, Maine, has participated in desert warfare training in California's Mojave Desert.

The exercise, Dagger Desert II, provided a real test of survivability and of how well the soldiers can perform their combat roles in a desert environment.

Beaulieu is a chemical operations specialist with the 2nd Battalion, 34th Field Artillery at Fort Sill, Okla.

His wife, Mary, is the daughter of Patrick F. and Marie Cheney of Bay St. Louis.

with those people and transferred to them the technology that we have developed in the area of remote sensing."

"Also in working with all sorts of people in state and local areas we have had to recognize that most people have money problems, real pressing problems."

"So we have become accustomed to building systems for a very small amount of money as compared to some other organizations," he said. "And getting the most that you possibly can for your money has become one of our characteristics and one that is always attractive to program managers in these days because no one has enough money," he said.

Currently at NSTL more than $1.5 million has been committed for the projects to be conducted locally.

Connors said that she has already been asked to supply justification for another $500,000 in the commercialization area.

Both Connors and Whitley said new contractors would be hired but that the addition of new employees would be limited.

"The numbers won't be great because the things we are doing in the area of simulation, we have done before," Whitley said.

"This will be a shift in emphasis, we are not building a big organization to call the space station office or division, we are adding that to the work that we already do and the people that we add on will be few in number and highly specialized," he added.

Mack Herring, NASA public affairs officer at NSTL, said, "In addition to the space station projects underway at NSTL, another obvious importance of the project here is that all space shuttle main engines are tested at this Hancock County facility."

The shuttle will be used to carry up the construction materials for the station, as well as periodic runs transporting crews, equipment, supplies and experiments, he added.

"We can look out and know that we have a good future in the space shuttle business," he said. "This has extended the usefulness of the shuttle beyond the 50 or 60 missions already planned."

Herring said at NSTL there are currently two single-engine and one large three-engine cluster testing stands.

"We are planning to construct another three-engine cluster stand in the spring," he said.

"The shuttle engine testing business is really picking up and with the advent of the space station this is just another use of the shuttle," Herring said.

This is something that will affect not only NSTL but the surrounding community as well, he said.

Tigers take double victory over Stanislaus

BY DENA BISNETTE

A close but error-prone varsity game highlighted a double Bay High victory over cross-town rival St. Stanislaus Monday night.

The Tigers won the varsity game 54-52 in a game that Coach Barney Necaise said "lacked intensity."

"I'm disappointed that the Tigers didn't have more intensity against a rival like St. Stanislaus. There were a lot of mistakes that shouldn't have been made," Necaise commented.

Necaise said the Tiger varsity, which has only one senior, has played better in some previous games and hopes to see improvement soon.

"Thursday we go up against Picayune, which is a veteran ballclub ranked as one of the top 20 in the state," he explained. "We'll have to play better ball than we did Monday night."

Dexter Bell led the scoring in the varsity game with 17 points, followed by Andre Daniels with 13 and Jeffery Smith with 10. Also scoring for the Tigers was Martin Elzy with five points, Darryl Wilkerson with five and Greg Necaise with four.

The top scorer for St. Stanislaus was Matt Rosetti with 12 points, followed by Jim Maxey with 11 and Emile Hazeur and Jim Bass with 10 each. Also scoring for Stanislaus were Tom Walton with 8 points and Mark Logan with one point.

In the junior varsity game, the Tigers won 45-30. Necaise said defense was the key to the victory.

"We started out with a zone defense but when we got behind on points we changed to a man-to-man defense. We know we can do better man-to-man and the quickness of our players enables us to use a lot of it with this group," the coach explained.

"The junior varsity also played with a lot of intensity and hustle Monday," Necaise commented.

The leading scorer for the junior varsity Tigers was Robert Hargett with 11 points, followed by Quentin Bell with 10 and Mike Perkins with eight. Also scoring were Lawrence Thomas with six, Gene Boswell with five, Richard Whavers with three and Matt Fairconnetue with two.

St. Stanislaus was led by Louis Schuff with 14 points, followed by Steve Montagnet with six, Jim Martin with four and Clinton Edwards, John Keller and Ivy Harris with two each.

The next game will be Thursday night at Picayune with junior varsity play beginning at 5 p.m.

Camping Family Style

BY ANGELA AND FORD BOTHWELL

Q. We camped in a couple of national parks last summer where it seemed like there were more people than trees. We don't enjoy camping in overcrowded parks. Someone told us there is a booklet that tells you how to avoid this. Is there such a publication, and where can we get it?

A. The National Park Service has published a fine information guide titled "Lesser-Known Areas of the National Park System" containing names, locations and descriptions, as well as camping data and park attractions. The guide is available for $4.50 from the U.S. Government Printing Office, Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D.C. 20402. (When ordering, specify stock number 024-005-00794-6.)

Readers may be interested in two other publications. All of the national parks and the facilities they offer are listed in "Guide & Map: National Parks in the United States" (stock number 024-005-00771-7), available for $2.25. More complete camping information can be found in "Camping in the National Park System" (stock number 024-005-00846-2), available for $3.50. Both booklets may be ordered from the address above.

Overcrowding in our "high use" national parks is definitely a problem, particularly in the summer months. That's because visitors from around the world know about the big attractions, such as Yellowstone, Yosemite or the Great Smoky Mountains National Parks. But who's ever heard of Big Thicket National Preserve in Texas, Arches National Park in Utah or Sleeping Bear Dunes National Lakeshore in Michigan? Mostly, only people who live nearby.

Your Stars Above BY EVE EWING

ARIES (3-21/4-19) A longing for change in your personal life should be candidly discussed with the other party involved. Perhaps the two of you can work out a solution without destroying what you have now.

TAURUS (4-20/5-20) A proposed move might mean greater financial reward, but your love of things familiar, for old friends and family, should be weighed against it before you make a decision.

GEMINI (5-21/6-20) Someone who loves you, faults and all, needs reassurance that you care. Now is the time to display a little more thoughtfulness and appreciation.

CANCER (6-21/7-22) Don't wallow in self-pity over a so-called friend's violation of your trust. Such disappointments happen to everyone many times in life. Just choose your confidantes with more care.

LEO (7-23/8-22) A willingness to take up any challenge is often admirable, but it wouldn't hurt to look before you leap. Challenge for its own sake can be self-defeating.

ETV Brief

CHRISTMAS SONGS
Christmas is in the air—and on the airwaves—on Saturday, Dec. 22. Mississippi ETV will telecast "An Old New England Concert" beginning at 6:30 p.m., followed at 7:30 p.m. by Mel Torme's "The Christmas Songs."

"An Old New England Concert" is a recreation of a "public concert of music" as it might have been done in New Haven, Conn., 200 years ago. Dressed in authentic colonial garb, the 26-member chamber orchestra of New England, under the direction of James Sinclair, performs selected pieces from the baroque and classical eras, including works by Haydn, Handel and Bach. Mel Torme leads an all-star cast in "The Christmas Songs," a sentimental tribute to the holidays. Special guests on this popular yearly rebroadcast are Les Brown and His Band of Renown, Rich Little, Roy Rogers, Richard Basehart, Maureen McGovern and Marilyn McCoo and Billy Davis.

SCIENCE FICTION
"Doctor Who in America," a documentary about "Doctor Who," the popular BBC science fiction TV series, will be telecast at 5 p.m., Saturday, Dec. 22 on Mississippi ETV.

The documentary includes interviews with fans, production personnel and "the Doctor" himself.

VIRGO (8-23/9-22) A break from routine is what's needed now to revive your flagging spirits. Take a long vacation, and you will return with renewed vigor for the job ahead.

LIBRA (9-23/10-22) Peace at any price is often your motto, but sometimes it is best to dig in your heels and fight for something. You tend to let others take advantage of your dread of conflict.

SCORPIO (10-23/11-21) Those under this sign make firm friends—and dangerous enemies. Avoid extremes even though it goes heavily against your nature.

SAGITTARIUS (11-22/12-21) Although you value your freedom above all else, you are frequently unwilling to grant others the same thing. A current romance is about to founder because of this.

CAPRICORN (12-22/1-19) You fail to realize that your innate reserve is often hypnotically attractive to the opposite sex. Cast off your shyness and make an approach to that certain someone.

AQUARIUS (1-20/2-18) "Don't Fence Me In," might well be your theme song, and it is doubtful you will ever change. Just be up front about it when dealing with personal relationships so others won't be hurt.

PISCES (2-19/3-20) You dislike the harsh world of business, but cannot avoid it since it is necessary to eat. So explore the arts in your leisure time, and it will make the daily grind easier.

Required education course developed for student teachers

A new education course to be required of all the state's prospective teachers next fall will give students their first on-the-job classroom experience, according to a member of the committee that developed the course.

Dr. Thomas Pickering, chairman of the Department of Curriculum and Instruction at the University of Southern Mississippi, served on the statewide Field Experience Criteria Committee.

The committee, which will submit its report to the Commission on Teacher Certification in January, was charged with developing a three-hour introduction-to-education course designed for beginning teachers.

What the committee recommended, according to Pickering, is a course very similar to CIE 300 Introduction to Elementary Education offered at USM. The new course to be offered in the fall of 1985 will be required of all education majors at the senior colleges.

"The course should be taken in the first semester of the junior year. In addition to 30 hours of lecture, there will be 30 hours during the semester of assisting a classroom teacher in routine teaching duties, similar to that of a teaching assistant," said Pickering, who was the only representative of an institution of higher learning on the committee.

The Commission on Certification determined students do not know enough about teaching before they get to student teaching, and that many ultimately decide they don't want to teach after four years of school, said Pickering. He noted very few USM students decide not to teach after their student teaching experience.

A second concern of the commission was to make education courses more relevant.

"If we get students into a classroom early in their coursework, then their other education courses will make more sense to them. We have tried to give our students as many opportunities for classroom experience as possible because the best way to learn how to teach is by doing it," Pickering added.

Students at USM for the past four years have had the option of taking three to five education courses taught by a team of professors in a morning-long block of time. This "Block of Time" option available to elementary and secondary education majors offers the first group a two-week field experience and the second group several visitations to schools throughout the semester.

The addition of the new course at USM will require a great deal of work on the part of Pickering and other members of the College of Education and Psychology. The teacher education curriculum will have to be altered because this new course is not to increase the number of courses required for the approximately 450 USM teacher education students per year who will take it.

The senior institutions which must offer the course also are responsible for setting up the new course. "By next fall we have to get the new course approved for students in secondary education and in such special subject areas as art education, physical education, music education and special education," he said.

Pickering and others also will solicit the support of area school districts and work out arrangements for placing students. There also will

Media to assist in safety program

This fall more than two million school children in more than 75,000 classrooms throughout the U.S. will start learning about the mass media and traffic safety through the "Play It Safe" campaign.

The new curriculum-based educational program and national competition is sponsored by the U.S. Department of Transportation and Kool-Aid brand soft drink.

"Play It Safe" is intended to offer "hands-on learning experience and develop critical viewing, listening and reading skills," according to Jack Coppenbarger, state chairman of the campaign.

The program is highlighted by a national competition which combines the students' understanding of media and safety issues in public service advertising campaigns which they will produce for newspapers, magazines, radio and television.

Radio and television broadcasters, journalists, safety experts and educators will actively participate in the program, in addition to judging the entries on state and national levels. National prize winners and finalists will receive an all expense paid trip to Washington, D.C. this spring, along with cash awards to their teachers and audiovisual equipment.

Reduced memberships offered for CostCon sci-fi convention

Reduced memberships for CostCon '85 are being offered this winter for the annual three-day science fiction, fantasy and gaming event.

Anyone who registers between now and Feb. 22 will be offered a membership rate of $12.50, compared to the $15 rate which will be charged at the door.

The reduced rate ends about two weeks before the convention, and no registrations will be accepted through the mails between Feb. 22 and March 3 to allow for registration paperwork to be completed.

The weekend will include games, films, panel discussions and social activities.

This year's convention will also attract some of the best known authors, artists and game designers in science fiction and fantasy, according to CostCon Committee President William Johnson of Moss Point.

The event has been declared an official activity of the State of Mississippi by Gov. Bill Allain.

Hancock County Schools continue search for handicapped students

LIBRARY DISPLAY—Handcrafted items by Theresa Braud and Philomena Carr are now on display at the Hancock County-Bay St. Louis Library on US-90. Soft Sculpture dolls, a quilted patchwork Christmas tree skirt and baby lunting are among specialty items created by the two friends who are now partners in a handcraft business.

FOUR-FACE DOLL—Of special interest in a handicraft exhibit by Philomena Carr and Theresa Braud is a doll with four faces. The head can be turned to express happiness, sadness, surprise or an impish grin. A quilted gingham basket contains a muslin doll. In addition, both women do custom sewing for children. The display can be seen at the Hancock County-Bay St. Louis Library on US-90.

Ms. Jeanette Handshoe, special education coordinator for Hancock County Schools, reports the district is continuing its participation in a statewide effort to identify, locate and evaluate children who are physically, mentally, emotionally, communicatively or emotionally handicapped.

As 'Child Find' program director, Handshoe works with the Department of Public Welfare, Department of Health, local education agencies, physicians, ministers and other individuals to identify and locate children aged birth through 21 both in school and out of school who may need special education services.

Once a referral is made, it is her responsibility to ensure that referral-to-placement procedures are followed.

Briefly, the process involves the following activities:

—Prior to evaluation, a parent information booklet, privacy rights, confidentiality procedures, school district policies, educational options and rights to the student are explained to parents.

After parental consent is obtained, a non-discriminatory evaluation is conducted in five areas: physical, language/speech, social, behavioral, emotional and educational.

If a problem is noted in one or more of the above, the student is further evaluated by qualified personnel.

Before an eligible student is placed in a special education program, parents must consent to the placement and an individual education program is developed for the student.

All students who receive special education services are reassessed at least once a year, Handshoe said.

Early identification of children who need special educational experiences is most important, Handshoe emphasized.

In-school Child Find activities include:

—Hearing and vision screening for all first and fourth graders, and referral for those students who fail the tests;

—Followup of first graders who exhibit serious problems during readiness testing;

—Followup of students in the statewide testing program who show a great discrepancy between expected and measured achievement;

—Followup of students referred by parents or agencies;

—Followup of referrals received through the State Department of Education Child Find Action Form;

—Inservice training for district personnel on Child Find and referral-to-placement procedures;

—Followup, as needed after a review of achievement test data and comparison with actual classroom performance and the child's age; and —Followup of children who are unsuccessful in Chapter I and other federal programs.

The policy provides that a student's instructional program will be reviewed by school personnel appointed by the superintendent whenever a student has failed any two subjects at the end of a semester.

It also provides for review of a student's instructional program if a student is suspended for more than ten days during a school year, is expelled or drops out of school and either has an apparent handicapping condition or is failing at least two subjects in the current or immediately preceding grading period.

The district provides a sequential program which meets a variety of student needs and three graduation options for handicapped students at the high school.

For further information, call the school district office at 467-4466.

USM to evaluate state alcohol awareness effort

The Governor's Highway Safety Program has awarded a $45,000 grant to the University of Southern Mississippi Department of Health and Safety Education to fund the evaluation of alcohol awareness projects throughout the state.

Dr. S. Eugene Barnes, assistant to the vice president for research and extended services, said the grant will allow the hiring of one person to travel throughout the state evaluating the programs, identifying weaknesses and working with program directors to compensate for the weaknesses.

The $45,000 will pay for the salary, travel and support services of the new employee who will work out of Jackson with the coordinator of the alcohol countermeasures program, Ernie Albritton.

Barnes said the project establishes a comprehensive alcohol countermeasure program with educational facilities, law enforcement officials and agencies, mental health agencies and citizens' groups all combining their interests and efforts.

The principal objective of the project is to reduce the number of DUI (driving under the influence) offenses in the state. The work involves the alcohol-education of all age groups regarding provisions of the new Implied Consent Law, which reduced the blood alcohol level constituting legal intoxication to .10 percent from .15.

"This education will help the public regulate its drinking and thus help them make better decisions about driving," Barnes explained.

department at William Carey College.

Seminar topics include rape investigation, forensic serology, forensic anthropology and an update on trace evidence.

Registration fee is $10 for law enforcement personnel and coroners, and $25 for all other participants.

For more information contact Tyler Fletcher at the University of Southern Mississippi, (601) 266-4509, or Waldrip at William Carey College, (601) 582-5051.

Seminar on evidence slated at Broadwater

A forensic science seminar on trace evidence will be conducted Jan. 16 at the Broadwater Beach Hotel in Biloxi by William Carey College on the Coast, the University of Southern Mississippi-Gulf Park and the University of South Alabama.

The seminar, which lasts from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., is being conducted by Dr. Irving C. Stone and Dr. Edward B. Waldrip.

Stone is chief of the physical evidence section at the Institute of Forensic Sciences in Dallas and Waldrip is chairman of the biology

ETV Brief

CHRISTMAS ORATORIO
"Great Performances" presents Johann Sebastian Bach's complete "Christmas Oratorio" in two parts at 9 p.m., Friday, Dec. 21 and 28 on Mississippi ETV.

Part I, "The Nativity," on Dec. 21 includes the first three of the six cantatas that comprise the oratorio. On Dec. 28 Part II, "The Epiphany," will be presented. The oratorio is sung in the original German and supplemented with English subtitles.

Performing will be the Concentus Musicus of Vienna under its conductor Nikolaus Harnoncourt. The Concentus Musicus performs on antique baroque instruments to closely recreate the sounds as Bach would have heard them. Soloists are tenor Peter Schreier and bass Robert Holl. Also featured is the Tolzer Boys Choir of Munich.

This "Great Performances" presentation launches the worldwide tricontinental of the birth of Bach. He was born in 1685 and died in 1750.

Try books as Christmas gifts, professor urges

Fifteen years ago Dr. Carolyn Baggett, assistant professor in The University of Mississippi's School of Education, gave her 11-year-old cousin a Christmas gift that neither of them would ever forget. The gift, neither trendy nor fashionable, was a dictionary.

"It was the one present that year that I had second thoughts about giving," she said. "I had even reprimanded myself for not having chosen clothes, a game or a piece of jewelry. Little did I realize that Julie, who adored the fantasies of Lewis, Alexander and Tolkien would, every Christmas thereafter, remember to thank me for the dictionary. After several years, it became a little embarrassing that the dictionary continued to make a bigger impression than the gift of the moment."

A true story with an obvious lesson: too often we adults don't give children enough credit. We assume that the "in," the trendy, the currently popular items will remain children's favorites. We fear that a book might seem like a boring gift, especially at Christmas time.

Dr. Baggett believes differently. "The truth is that a book, which at first might seem like a stranger, soon becomes a child's friend," she said.

Following is a list of books, targeted for specific age groups, which Dr. Baggett suggests as Christmas gifts for youngsters.

For Kindergarten Through Second Grade:

—"Airport," by Byron Barton, is an informational book which describes what happens from the time a passenger arrives at an airport until the plane is in the air. Published by Crowell, the book is illustrated in color.

—"Dinosaurs, Beware! A Safety Guide" by Marc T. Brown, children are warned by dinosaurs of the consequences of not following safety rules in the home. The book is published by Little, Brown.

—"Jean de Brunhoff's 'Babar's Anniversary Album' includes six favorite Babar stories: 'The Story of Babar,' 'Travels of Babar,' 'Babar the King,' 'Babar's Birthday Surprise,' 'Babar's Mystery,' and 'Babar and the Wully-Wully.' The 144-page book is published by Random House and includes an introduction by Maurice Sendak.

—"Do You Want To Be My Friend?" by Eric Carle features an amiable mouse who asks several large animals if they want to be his friend. Each animal is preceded by a picture of its tail. The book is published by Crowell.

—"Tom De Paola's 'Giorgio's Village: A Pop-up Book' features six pop-up scenes which describe a day in an Italian Renaissance village, where a young street sweeper named Giorgio and his cat, Puffino, live. The book is published by Putnam.

—"The Baby Uggs are Hatching" by Jack Prelutsky is an amusing collection of poems enhanced by monstrously clever illustrations by James Stevenson. Published by Greenwillow, the book has 32 pages.

—"What Has Ten Legs and Eats Cornflakes?" by Ron Roy contains information on how to care for gerbils, hermit crabs and chameleons, all of which require about the same care if kept as pets. The book is illustrated by Lynne Cherry and published by Clarion.

For Third and Fourth Graders:

—"Marco Polo" traces the travels of Marco Polo from Venice to China and the court of the mighty Kubla Khan. Illustrated by Piero Ventura, the book is published by Putnam.

—"And Then What Happened, Paul Revere?" is one in a series of biographies by Jean Fritz which provide insightful, little-known and amusing information about early American heroes. The 45-page book is published by Coward, McCann and Geoghegan and is illustrated by Margot Tomes.

—"Astronomy Today" by Dinah L. Moche is an introduction to planets, space missions, stargazing, galaxies, etc. Illustrated by Harry McNaught and published by Random House, the 96-page book is illustrated in color.

—"In 'Dinosaurs, Beware! A Safety Guide' by Marc T. Brown, children are warned by dinosaurs of the consequences of not following safety rules in the home. The book is published by Little, Brown.

—"Jean de Brunhoff's 'Babar's Anniversary Album' includes six favorite Babar stories: 'The Story of Babar,' 'Travels of Babar,' 'Babar the King,' 'Babar's Birthday Surprise,' 'Babar's Mystery,' and 'Babar and the Wully-Wully.' ## Hancock Insurance Agency

(Your Independent Insurance Agency Working for You)

There are two basic steps that you can take to determine if you have adequate insurance on your valuables:

- 1) Get an appraisal and know today's replacement value. For your protection, have valuables professionally appraised.
- 2) Know the limits on theft losses in your homeowners policy. Your homeowners policy covers all personal possessions. When there is a loss by theft, however, the amount of reimbursement on certain items is limited.

An inventory is vitally important after a loss. If there is a disaster tomorrow, would you remember each item lost? We have inventory booklets to help make the job easier. Come by our office for your free booklet—no obligation.
